

UDAY DEVGAN MD, FACS, FRCS

DISCLOSURE OF RELATIONSHIPS WITH PHARMACEUTICAL AND MEDICAL DEVICE MANUFACTURERS

Dr. Devgan maintains this private practice, Devgan Eye Surgery, as well as his academic position as Chief of Ophthalmology at Olive View UCLA Medical Center and Clinical Professor of Ophthalmology at the Jules Stein Eye Institute at the UCLA School of Medicine for which he is paid. In addition, Dr. Devgan is honored to be one of the very few consultants and key opinion leaders in the ophthalmology world. There are 18,000 ophthalmologists in the US, but less than 1% of them are chosen to be key opinion leaders, researchers, speakers, and consultants.

This is a potential advantage for you in two ways:

- Dr. Devgan is involved with, and has access to, the latest products and innovations, and
- It gives you reassurance since these multi-billion dollar medical companies choose only the best-of-the-best physicians.

For his work, Dr. Devgan is paid by pharmaceutical, medical device, and consulting companies to assist in the development, research, and educational programs for their products. The pharmaceutical and medical device products that Dr. Devgan chooses for surgery are tailored to be optimal for each specific patient and may be from some of the companies listed below. Direct payment is never made to Dr. Devgan in exchange for usage of specific products. Your best interest always comes first.

As of September, 2016, Dr. Devgan's current financial disclosure list includes:

Specialty Surgical Center: stockholder

This is the Beverly Hills facility where Dr. Devgan does cataract & intraocular surgery.

Accutome Inc: royalties for instrument design

Alcon / Novartis: paid consultant and speaker

Bausch & Lomb: paid consultant & speaker

Gerson Lehrman Group: paid consultant

LensGen Inc: paid consultant & stockholder

Omeros Inc: paid consultant

Slack / Ocular Surgery News: paid speaker

I have reviewed this list of pharmaceutical, medical device and related companies with which Dr. Devgan has a financial relationship. I wish to proceed with Dr. Devgan as my physician.

Print Name

Signature

Date

Starting August 1, 2013 all payments and transfers of value, including food and beverage expenses, given to any physician by pharmaceutical or medical device companies must be reported to the federal government. All of this data will be available to the public on a federal government website. This includes the value of any meal or beverage over $10 consumed by a physician during a medical meeting as well as any payments for research, development, or consulting by these companies. This form provides detail of Dr. Devgan's current financial relationships. Should you wish to view inactive relationships, please ask our Front Desk team.